SPEAKER | PODCAST HOST | WRITER

When life as you know it is flipped upside down, we struggle to make sense of it all. Why would a good God allow this to happen? In early 2018, the deepest questions of my life erupted when I unexpectedly lost my husband of 32 years. Since then, I've searched the heart of God for what He has to say about pain & suffering.

Join me as we discover God's answers to the deepest cries of our shattered hearts.

1. Where were you, God?
2. Do you even care?
3. Who am I now?

Through the universal language of laughter & tears, let's join together to find strength to take the next step, encouragement for the next breath, & hope for a new day.

God speaks beautiful things in the dark.

TESTIMONIAL:

BIO:

Sherrie Pilkington enters into various aspects of her life as a daughter of the One True God. The most recent role she unexpectedly stepped into was that of widow. Known for pondering the hard things in life through the lens of God's heart, she has discovered that there are many types of deaths, and that the good God we profess does not stand off in the distance watching as we suffer. As she makes peace with a season of grief, she has found a new passion & mission to share that we are never alone & that God speaks beautiful things to us in the dark.
